

End support to chipboard flooring

(Withdrawn – January 2023)

The Technical Guidance Notes are produced by NHBC as guidance solely for our builder customers as to how to interpret the technical requirements in relation to the warranty cover provided by NHBC under its Buildmark, Buildmark Choice, Buildmark Link, Buildmark Solo, Buildmark Connect or any similar product from time to time. It has not been created or intended for distribution or use outside of that purpose. The information contained in this Technical Guidance Note does not constitute advice and is not to be relied upon by any third party. Nothing in this Technical Guidance Note is intended to, nor should it be taken to, create any legal or contractual relationship. Any third party who chooses to rely upon the information contained in the Technical Guidance Notes shall do so entirely at their own risk and NHBC accepts no duty of care or liability, however caused, in connection with its use or reliance by any third party.

Question

Where end joints in chipboard flooring occur between joists, how should the joints be supported?

Considerations

- End joints should usually be located over a joist.
- Failure to provide adequate support will significantly weaken the floor.

Answer

For all thicknesses of flooring, joist centres and types of chipboard an “H” frame (using minimum 38mm x 38mm timber) should be provided under all end joints occurring between joists. The frame must be securely fixed to the adjacent joists.

The builder should be advised that in future all end joints should occur over a joist.
